DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 5-6 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 5-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Zhao et al (5,660,682) in view of Sun et al (5,674,357).

Zhao et al disclose a cleaning process of an integrated circuit device, wherein a majority of photoresist is removed by conventional method such as wet or dry etching process (col.1, lines 30-43).

Zhao et al also disclose that the photoresist removal process form undesirable material such as silicon oxide on the exposed surface of the silicon substrate and residual polymeric photoresist (col.1, lines 54-63).

Zhao et al further disclose that the undesirable material and the residual polymeric photoresist are removed by ion bombardment with argon plasma (col.1, lines 64-67 and col.2, lines 66-col.3, lines 32).

Zhao et al remain silent about the majority of photoresist is removed by oxygen plasma.

However, in a method of removing photoresist, Sun et al teach that oxygen plasma is conventionally used to remove majority of photoresist for reducing the processing cost because the oxygen plasma is art recognized process (col.7, lines 64-col.8, lines 5).

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time of claimed invention to combine Sun et al's oxygen plasma into dry etching of Zhao et al's process for reducing the processing cost because the oxygen plasma is art recognized process for easily removal of photoresist as taught by Sun et al.

Conclusion

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Chen (5,970,376) disclose a method of removing photoresist and the remaining polymer residue using oxygen and argon plasma; Delfino et al (5,627,105) disclose that argon plasma ion bombardment is used to remove oxide for silicon substrate before a subsequent process (col.3, lines 32-38) and Smith et al teach that after removal of photoresist, the residual photoresist is removed by argon plasma (col.4, lines 32-36).

5. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within

Art Unit: 1765

TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
